

ALEX FOSTER – CREATOR OF STRIDE GLIDE

Alex Foster was born in 1970 in Florida, the United States. He first created and launched the Boost Model in 1995, marking the birth of Stride Glide, the first ultra-comfort running shoes brand in the United States. Stride Glide then expanded its product lines to include apparels for different sports, promoting a healthier and more active lifestyle. Stride Glide has always been a market leader in the sports apparels market and still is a pioneer in creating the most comfortable, durable and high-quality products for its customers.